

Motivation for Mt 22: 15-21

Lectio is a time when we actively come face to face with our creator. If we think about it, if God spoke the word into being, then we, as God's creation are his living words. Since we bear his words, let us be prudent and responsible in how we represent God's word. Are we examples of his living word, or do we live our lives ignorant to God's call on our life? As you read Sunday's gospel, I invite you to consider how you bear God's word to the world. Is it something you have ever thought about, that you are a thought of God, that you belong to him? Think how magnificent that is! I invite you to ponder how much God has entrusted to you, and how you will respond to his word today. Will you call that friend that you've been too busy to talk to? Will you go to confession after however long you have been fearful to go? Will you wake up tomorrow morning and instead of thinking how busy you will be that day, will you say a quick hello to Jesus and give that day to him? Let us acknowledge that we are his creatures and that we belong to him. How can we show that today?
