

Motivation for Mark 1: 29-39

Christ lives with us and offers us a limitless, selfless love. Welcoming all of us into his care, He sits by the well that we are invited to so that however weighed down by the thoughts, doubts and ailments that have preoccupied us so, we may find our rest and strength in our mission.

I invite you to dwell on the ways in which you approach Christ; can you hear his call to follow him amidst the life we live? What do you bring to Him? What are your injuries that you present to the Lord?

There may be several doorways we need to pass through in order to discover the great and enormous depths of Christ's love for us. Perhaps it is in the more unlikely places that we can stand and say with the joyous conviction that 'I have seen the Lord'.

Let us listen to the readings this Sunday and renew our journey to see Christ in our lives as we encounter His actions in the Good News that comes!
