

Motivation for Matthew 20:1-16

God calls us in various ways. The time in which we receive that joy of direction, of purpose in our Vocation is not always a time that suits us: it is at a time when we needed direction. How were you called? At what point in your life has the Lord chosen you? Think about the times in which His word pierced our hearts and enabled us to listen to his voice.

Have we at times bemoaned the fortunes of others? The clarity in which they see their path, their direction in their lives? In this Sunday's Gospel, God describes to us a keystone to our lives as Christians; a simple understanding that can transform our encounters with others. How can this encourage you in living out your faith this week, in the encounters you face? Incline your heart to the Word that comes!
